HOME ECONOMICS INSTRUCTION IN HIGHER INSTITUTIONS, INCLUDING UNIVERSITIES, COLLEGES, TEACHERS COLLEGES, NORMAL SCHOOLS, AND JUNIOR COLLEGES, 1928–29

Prepared by EMELINE S. WHITCOMB, Specialist in Home Economics and ANDREW H. GIBBS, Office of Education

This pamphlet has been prepared in response to a great many requests for information in regard to the status of home economics instruction in universities, colleges, teachers colleges, normal schools, and junior colleges. The tables given herein serve to show what institutions are offering a 4-year curriculum in home economics leading to a baccalaureate degree, and which universities, colleges, normal schools, teachers colleges, and junior colleges offer courses in home economics but do not grant degrees in that subject.

The information in this pamphlet was secured from a questionnaire sent to all the universities and colleges, junior colleges, teachers colleges, State normal schools, city public normal schools, and private general training schools listed in the Educational Directory of the Office of Education, for 1929. In addition to a second request, the questionnaire findings were supplemented in many instances by the home economics information from the catalogues of the respective institutions and from correspondence. Every effort has been made to present the facts as given in the questionnaire returns and catalogues of the institutions; nevertheless, inconsistencies may appear as between curricula and courses.

Most of the material included in the circular is for the latter part of the first semester of the school year 1928–29, but since all of the institutions did not respond to the first request, in some cases material for the second, or spring semester, of 1929 has been included.

Three hundred and twenty-two institutions reported as offering a 4-year curriculum in home economics leading to a baccalaureate
